New Equipment Ordered.

Southern railway recently placed orlocomotive works for fifteen type engines, forty freight engines enty switch engines, all of which order for a large number of cars has also been placed. The Pacific type locomotives, owing to their great weight, are not used across the Long bridge. An order for a number of these engines was filled a short time ago, and "chasers" are in use between Alexandria and the south.

Shot was fired, and the car was in front of the Columbian Law building at the time. Conductor Potts, who was in charge of the car at the time, reported the matter to the police, and the officers of the sixth precinct are making an investigation.

ALUMNI AT BANQUET

FORMER STUDENTS OF GONZAGA COLLEGE CELEBRATE.

Eighth Anniversary Occasion for Speeches of Interest by Prominent People-Those Present.

The eighth annual banquet of the Alumni Association of Gonzaga College was held in the college hall last night with about 100 nembers and guests in attendance and an enjoyable evening was spent. Those who responded to toasts were Representative W. Bourke Cockran, Mgr. O'Connell, rector of the Catholic University of America; Representative J. A. Goulden, Very Rev. E. X. Fink, S. J., president of Gonzaga College; Mr. Hannis Taylor, Mr. Francis Sheehy and Father Quill, William Bruce King acted as toastmaster.

Mr. King was in especially happy mood in introducing the various speakers and his remarks were received with evident pleasure. The first to make an address was Representative Bourke Cockran of New York who was greeted with a round of applause as he arose from his seat. Mr. Cockran talked of the duties of laymen in the Roman Catholic Church.

"We have here a virgin soil," he said. "It is not the conversion of the heathen that the layman of America is called upon to work for. It is rather the conversion of our own people. This duty is not so much for the clergy as it is for the laity, the Catholic young men, whose purpose it should be to live lives that can be looked to as models. This is a wonderfully practical people, and their conversion is not to be accomplished by sermons, but rather by the daily lives of the Catholic laymen.

Roman Catholics Loyal Citizens. "There was a time when a Catholic was cor sidered as an enemy of the flag, but now the people realize that a Catholic can be a loyal citizen. In the Catholic faith alone remains the safety of the republic, and when the great body of the people will have learned this the country will become Catholic and remain Catholic until the end of Mr. Cockran was followed by Representative Goulden, who spoke of the history of the Roman Catholic Church and the progress made by it in the United States. lauded the Roman Catholic heroes of the American revolution, whose services, he said, had added so much toward its success "The time will come," said Mr. Goulden, in stentorian tones, "when all Americans will become members of the great Roman Catholic body." Mgr. O'Connell. Mgr. O'Connell, rector of the Catholic University of America, spoke of the great work of the institution over which he presides, and said it was the culmination of the educational work of the Catholic Church, and that in its practical working great good was hoped to be accomplished to the young men throughout the whole

Mr. Sheehy told of the growth of the Genzaga College since he was a student, and predicted for it continued success in the future. Mr. Hannis Taylor paid a high tribute to the learning and scholarship of the Catholic clergy, and spoke of the influence the church had had upon his life, al-though he was only connected with it by marriage.

Father Fink, rector of the college, gave a history of the institution from its organiza-tion in 1821 to the present time, and told of the large number of successful students that had left its portals fitted for life in verious chosen fields. He said that the aim of the college was not alone to furnish a classical education, but by example and precept to instill in the minds of all the was heartily applauded.

A charge of violating the fish law by using a dip net in the Potomac river was filed against Lawrence Kearney in the United States branch of the Police Court Kearney under arrest on the river near Georgetown yesterday afternoon, who had in his possession a boat containing about 2,000 herring.

Kearney admitted that the fish were in the boat, but explained that they did not belong to him, he having only been employed to take the boat to the fish wharf. He said he could produce witnesses to prove the truth of his statement. Judge Kimball thereupon continued further hearing of the case until Friday after issuing an order that the witnesses be notified to appear in

DAMAGED BY FIRE

Paint Store. A fire occurred in the paint store of Francis Miller, 807 9th street northwest, this morning about 12:80 o'clock. The flames had gained considerable headway by the time the firemen arrived at the building and it was only due to their prompt work that the building and adjoining structures were saved from destruction. The greater part of the stock in Mr. Miller's store was saved. The firemen succeeded in confining the flames to the lower floor, although the smoke and heat caused some little damage in the upper part of the building. The heat was so intense that a portion of the metallic ceiling in the rear part of the building occupied by Parker & Bridget was damaged. There was nothing about the building to give the firemen an idea of the origin of the fire. It is known that the blaze started in the rear part of the store where there was no combustible material. The office was in that part of the store and the only merchandise near there was in sealed packages. A pedestrian passing along D street noticed the bright light in an alley in the rear of the store and he turned in an alarm from box 129.

Assistant Chief Wagner had the firemen attack the flames from the front and rear at the same time, and was particular in his efforts to prevent them from reaching the upper floor. It took the firemen but a short time to get the fire under control, and Mr. Miller was on hand early in the morning to take charge of his building and damaged stock. Mr. Miller was unable to give an estimate of the damage, but the firemen feit certain it would not exceed $5,000. It is believed that the loss is fully covered by insurance.

SPECIES NOT COMMON HERE. Fish Puzzle Expert Anglers, but Recognized Officially as Tench. Precinct Detective Burrows of the seventh precinct took to the fish commission yesterday afternoon two fish that were caught in a minnow seine in Gravelly creek a few days ago. Detective Burrows is one of the oldest fish experts in this city, but he had never before seen anyto him yesterday. The body of the fish is very much like that of the black bass, but its head resembles that of the mullet. There is a stripe along the body something like that on the salmon. Its fins, however, are not similar to those of the salmon. The fish, it is stated, remained alive out of water for nearly forty-eight

At the fish commission the specimens were examined and the conclusion reached that they are known as tench. Some years ago they were brought fom Eng-land and the Potomac river was stocked. It is said a few of them have been caught with hook and line. The fish were put in a tank at the commission.

TROUBLE IN THE FAMILY.

Bert Blaine Fined for Disorderly Conduct at Home.

Bert Blaine and James B. Elgin, who reside, together with their respective families, in the same house at 637 L street southeast, were the principals in a Police Court trial yesterday, Blaine appearing as the defendant on two charges-assault and battery and disorderly conduct. Elgin was the chief witness, but Blaine's appearance indicated that he was the injured party instead of Elgin.

It developed from the evidence that Blaine had a misunderstanding with his wife yesterday, and that she went to the upper part of the house, occupied by Elgin, being followed by her husband, where the two men exchanged hot words. Eigin claimed value of good and correct lives. He told of that Blaine attacked him, and the latter the improvement in the methods in vogue in turn declared that Elgin was the agat the college over those of several years gressor, and pointed to several wounds ago and hoped for continued prosperity. his head, which he claimed were caused by Eigin. Eigin explained, however, that the defendant was injured by falling down. After hearing all the facts Judge Kimball accepted Blaine's personal bonds in the assault case and imposed a fine of $10 for the disorder. Blaine was given the privilege of spending one month in the workhouse in default of payment.
